There are many variations to dancing Salsa therefore it is far from easy to determine your level. In attempting too high a level, you will miss the finer points of technique, which can lead to you, or your partners becoming frustrated.

All instructors will teach at different levels, so please do not feel you will miss out on being taught by any of them.

The length of time dancing Salsa, should not be taken as a benchmark for your level, dancers from different styles and dance schools will differ in accordance to the standard of dancing they are used to. If you are in any doubt about which level you should select, you are advised to choose the level below that, in which you are having doubt.

Anyone taking advanced level workshops, must demonstrate competency at this level, or will be asked to step down to another level workshop.

Rough Guideline

Beginners/Improver

5 to 50 sessions of tuition or free style dancing for up to 18 Month,

Improver/Intermediate

18 Months to 4 years dancing under tuition or free style.

Intermediate/Advance

Over 4 years experience dancing Salsa
